Hawk Promises A Gripping Journey

Author Brian A. Connolly creates an exciting tale of adventure and an unlikely friendship in Hawk, his new novel. Hawk, an old Susquehannock storyteller, and his young friend Jimmy embark on a journey through the woods and through the stories of their pasts.

The tale begins with a truck crash on an icy road along the Allegheny River, which allows a pack of wolves to escape into the wild. Hawk and Jimmy take on the task of tracking down the pack of wolves and bringing them to safety. Upon setting out on their voyage, Hawk and Jimmy have no idea what is awaiting them in the woods.

Along their journey, the men learn of potential poachers in the area and fear the harm they will cause the wolves. Hawk and Jimmy stumble upon one of the best hidden secrets of the woods, Miss Reba Snow. With the help of their wild, gun-slinging friend, they are able to venture into the woods with the hope of finding the wolves before the poachers do.

Brian A. Connolly graduated from Edinboro University in Pennsylvania, where he received the Finnegan Award for Poetry. He taught creative writing in public schools for 28 years and also served as a Project Adventure teacher. Mr. Connolly spends a few months each year writing in Yellowstone and observing wolves, the inspiration for many of his stories. Mr. Connolly grew up in Port Allegany, Pennsylvania, the setting for Hawk.

Hawk is available in softcover (ISBN 978-1-60264-029-0) and hardcover (ISBN 978-1-60264-030-6) from Virtualbookworm.com, Amazon.com and Barnes and Noble.com.
